
China Southern selects STELIA seating for new 777-300ER fleet

By Rachel Debling on December, 10 2018 | Seating

CSN and STELIA Aerospace renew their partnership for the airline's new 777-300 ER long-haul fleet (Copyright: STELIA Aerospace)

China Southern Airlines (CSN) has signed another partnership deal with STELIA Aerospace, this time for its new 777-300 ER long-haul fleet.

The renewal builds on the existing relationship between the airline and supplier, which began in 2013 when STELIA equipped CSN's 777-300 ER and continued in 2017 when the companies teamed up again for the airline's A330-300.

CSN has selected a customized version of the SOLSTYS Premium Business Class seat that has been adjusted for the airline's needs, including direct aisle access, large fully flat bed, more stowage space, integrated reading lights and an ample meal table. Sixteen-inch full HD touchscreen monitors will also provide passengers with a personalized and interactive inflight entertainment experience.

Thierry Kanengieser, VP Cabin Interior, STELIA Aerospace, said in a statement from the company: "China Southern Airlines confirms its confidence in STELIA Aerospace by selecting the proven comfortable and reliable SOLSTYS seat, which will now be flying on their additional 777-300 ER aircraft. We are very proud of the long partnership that our two companies have built over the past years and we will continue to invest and support China Southern Airlines strongly for its future development needs".