Emirates has introduced to its First and Business Class cabins a selection of lounge wear, luxury blankets, skincare from VOYA and a new range of amenity kits from Bulgari.

Emirates has introduced the what it says is the world's first moisturizing loungewear designed for an airline. It will be available in First Class on overnight long haul flights. In partnership with Matrix, the suits use Hydra Active Microcapsule Technology designed to keep skin hydrated during the flight. The technology uses billions of capsules applied to the fabric, which gently releases naturally moisturizing Sea Kelp during movement. Sea Kelp, a brown sea algae, is known to be rich in nutrients that hydrate skin while retaining moisture.

The Microcapsule Technology of the loungewear locks in the moisturizer for up to 10 washes so passengers can reuse them. The suits include matching slippers and eye mask and come in a stylish felt pouch.

Emirates also offers a plush, faux sheep-skin blanket in First Class. The comforter is on board and also sold at the Emirates Official Store. Business Class passengers can also look forward to newly introduced soft duvets in charcoal grey.

A new range of luxury spa products are now available both on board and on the ground from award-winning Irish brand VOYA. Created exclusively for Emirates, this skincare line includes shampoo, conditioner, body wash, cleanser, body moisturiser, hand wash, soap and hand cream. It will be available in the A380 shower spa on board and selected products in Emirates' airport lounges. The hand and body cream can also be found in the First and Business Class washrooms.

The range for Emirates includes three different fragrances: rosemary and mint (Revitalise range), lavender and rosemary (Tranquility range) and lime and mandarin (Soothing range). VOYA's line of skincare is made from sustainable organic seaweed, which has been hand harvested in Sligo, Ireland. The brand is a mainstay in luxury boutique spas worldwide.

Emirates has also partnered with luxury Italian brand Bulgari for its latest designs of the airline's exclusive kit bags. The new set of amenity kits for both First and Business Class feature Bulgari's woody floral fragrance – Eau Parfumée au thé noir – and contain skincare essentials to keep customers feeling fresh and pampered throughout the flight.

The First Class kit bags, made from fine leather, come in eight designs in charcoal grey for men and pale grey for women. Eight additional designs are available in Business Class – four for men and four for women. The amenity kits are available on long-haul overnight flights.
