Flying Food Group SEA partners with Hainan Airlines

Flying Food Group SEA has announced direct flights between Seattle-Tacoma International Airport (SEA) and Beijing Capital International Airport (PEK) in collaboration with Hainan Airlines.

The new service launched earlier this month and marks a significant milestone in the reopening of air routes between China and the United States. The direct flights will operate three times a week, providing travellers with convenient transportation between the two major hubs.

The partnership between Hainan Airlines and Flying Food Group encompasses a long-term, multi-city agreement, further solidifying the commitment to enhancing travel connections and passenger experiences.

"We are delighted to be servicing Hainan Airlines and to have partnered to support their upcoming expansion," said Nicolas Rondeau, Senior Sales and Marketing Management Executive of Flying Food Group. "This collaboration underscores our dedication to providing exceptional in-flight catering services and contributing to the success of our airline partners."

The direct flights between SEA and PEK signify the strengthening of economic and cultural ties between the two nations.
