Lüneburg-based tech accessory designer Vonmählen has announced the launch of its newest allroundo® product. The five-in-one travel charger features a data cable with an integrated power bank. The German company is using a Kickstarter campaign to launch the product, which is the second edition of the allroundo. The original launched on Kickstarter earlier this year.

allroundo power includes a fast-charging USB-C to USB-C cable and connectors for Micro-USB, Lightning, and USB-A. It has six combination options making it compatible with common portable devices. It weighs 225g and is 90mm x 90mm x 45mm. It has high-quality aluminium connectors, a spiral cable that extends up to 120cm and a water-resistant gucci nylon travel case.

According to a release from the company, allroundo power is Vonmählen's best-selling product to date. Almost 5,550 supporters have contributed to the launch, exceeding the campaign target by 700%, the statement said.

"We decided to launch on Kickstarter because it gives us direct contact to customer feedback before distributing the product worldwide," said Vonmählen Founder and Chief Executive Officer Julian Thormählen.
