AMAC Aerospace Group of Companies showcases range of MRO specialties in Amsterdam

The AMAC Aerospace Group of Companies exhibiting at MRO Europe 2026 in Amsterdam, The Netherlands

From aircraft completions in Basel to composites work in France, AMAC Aerospace brought a cross-section of its business to Aviation Week's MRO Europe 2026 in Amsterdam last week.

Anthony Wilkinson, Business Development Manager at AMAC Aerospace's UK-based GAMIT Limited, tells PAX Tech the show gave the AMAC Aerospace Group of Companies a chance to catch up with customers and meet prospective clients.

A comprehensive approach to MRO

The AMAC Aerospace Group of Companies is comprised of several locations, each providing a specific subset of services ranging from MRO to VIP cabin completions to engineering services and servicing commercial aircraft, seasonally. AMAC Aerospace is headquartered in Basel, Switzerland, where the company offers completions and refurbishments, maintenance, engineering services and CAMO. JCB Aero, An AMAC Aerospace Company, based in Auch France, also offers completions and refurbishments, maintenance, engineering services, as well as maritime, serial production and rotor production. The GAMIT Limited arm of the company is based in Stansted, UK, where it delivers material support, ROAM digital records and CAMO services.

Copyright DutyFree Magazine. All rights reserved.

Alongside its completions and composites work, AMAC Aerospace highlighted its support services in Saudi Arabia and GAMIT's expertise in parts, inventory, continuing airworthiness and software during MRO Europe 2026.

"We have a lot to offer and these kinds of events are always a good opportunity to connect with industry colleagues and customers," GAMIT's Wilkinson explains.

With headquarters based in Basel, Switzerland, Wilkinson says the Amsterdam event offers a strategic location for the AMAC Aerospace Group of Companies.

"The European market is a very mature market. There is a lot of innovation still happening [here] and there are a lot of aircraft in Europe as well."

But Wilkinson emphasizes that the AMAC Aerospace Group of Companies is not just concentrated on the European market, setting its sights on a global reach.

"We are also very much interested in the Middle East region, the APAC region and the Americas," he affirms.

Two locations in Turkey

AMAC Aerospace also boasts a significant presence in Turkey, with maintenance operations in Bodrum and a range of services – from refurbishment, to maintenance, to aircraft sales – on offer in Istanbul.

Remzi Ozturk, Sales & Key Account Director at AMAC Aerospace Turkey said via LinkedIn that MRO Europe was a successful event for the AMAC Aerospace Group of Companies, with AMAC Aerospace welcoming many visitors to its booth and hosting productive discussions with existing customers, potential partners and companies interested in aircraft parts supply.

"The event provided an excellent opportunity to present our enhanced capabilities, establish new connections, and discuss how the [AMAC Aerospace Group of Companies] can further support its customers through expanded capacity, and an increased range of approvals," Ozturk said. "We look forward to building on these discussions and developing new opportunities for collaboration across the aviation industry."

Copyright DutyFree Magazine. All rights reserved.