Delta stepping up cleaning regime

By PAX International on March, 10 2020 | Cabin Maintenance

Delta Air Lines has expanded its aircraft interior cleaning processes to include a fogging procedure that disinfects surface areas touched in the aircraft.

The procedure uses a high-grade EPA-registered disinfectant that the airline says is highly effective against many communicable diseases, including coronaviruses. Following the fogging procedure, cleaning crews thoroughly clean cabin surfaces including tray tables, seatback screens, and lavatories.
