

Scottish Leather Group acquires Aerotech Systems Limited

Scottish Leather Group brings UK CAA Part 21G approval into the group

Muirhead has announced that its parent company, Scottish Leather Group, has acquired Aerotech Systems Limited, bringing UK CAA Part 21G approval into the group.

"Across the aviation sector, certification, program timelines and supply chain complexity continue to place pressure on cabin interiors development," Muirhead said. "With Part 21G approval now closer to our existing capabilities, we are strengthening how we support certified seating programs from concept through to delivery."

BioPRO Foam, Muirhead's high performance aviation leather and engineered seat covers are now aligned with in-house certification expertise, offering a more integrated route to compliant cabin interiors.

"By bringing UK CAA Part 21G approval in-house, we are transforming how we serve the aerospace industry," said Mark Hooton, Business Development Director – BioFoam. "We continue to lead the way in sustainable manufacturing, and we now have the regulatory approval to match our technical excellence."