SEKISUI KYDEX tells PAX Tech today that John Martino, Western Regional Business Manager, will be leaving his position as of October 31 to pursue new professional challenges.

"SEKISUI KYDEX has undergone many changes throughout the years, and John Martino, Western Regional Business Manager, has been a positive guiding force for the company. The company has announced that after years of being a driving force for the organization, John is resigning from his position," the company says.

"John has made an incredible impact on our organization, and many of you can attest to his passion and commitment to the industry and his customers," says Ben Smalley, Director of Business Development at SEKISUI KYDEX. "We are deeply saddened to see such an instrumental member of our team leave, but we are excited for John and his next chapter."

"John has played an instrumental part in our organization's journey since he joined us in 2010. Although his departure saddens us, we are thrilled for him and his future endeavours," adds Ian Donohue, Digital Marketing Communications Manager at SEKISUI KYDEX.

The company shared in a Business Team Update on October 11 that they are currently mapping out the transition.
