Arajet has received a 737-8 aircraft equipped with Geven's Economy Class Essenza SE D3 seats.

"This delivery was made possible through our valued partnership with BOC Aviation, and we are especially excited to share that this is the first Boeing aircraft ever equipped with Geven SpA's state-of-the-art economy class seat in linefit — a game-changer in passenger comfort and in-flight experience," István Jámor, VP of Fleet, Arajet, said via LinkedIn. "This addition to our fleet underscores Arajet's mission to make air travel more accessible, comfortable and sustainable for the Dominican Republic and the region.”

The 737-8, recently delivered to Arajet is equipped with Geven’s Essenza SE D3 seat for Economy class, marking the first instance of this seat on a Boeing aircraft in linefit. The Essenza SE is designed to meet the most basic and essential needs of the high-density cabin, offering maximum comfort and living space within the most confined spaces, while minimizing weight and cost of ownership. The seat features the best shin and knee clearance at lowest pitch in its category, according to Geven.

“A heartfelt thank you to our partners and every team member who made this achievement possible. The journey has just begun — and we’re ready for what comes next,” said Geven via LinkedIn.

“Honored to have contributed with my team to this exceptional project—it has been an inspiring journey full of collaboration, creativity and meaningful impact,” said Agostino Capasso, Head of Program Management, Geven, of the Essenza SE D3 taking off with Arajet.
