

Icelandair's A321LR takes flight with Geven's Business and Economy Class seats

Geven's Comoda - Materia Pack with Panasonic Astrova on Icelandair

Geven SpA (Geven) was present at Icelandair's inauguration event on December 3 to board the airline's first A321LR, with Geven's seats in Business Class and Economy Class.

Passengers flying on Icelandair's new A321LR will be able to relax in Geven's Comoda - Materia Pack in Business Class and Geven's Elemento seat in Economy Class, integrated with Panasonic's Astrova IFE system. This marks the first-ever integration of Panasonic's Astrova in Geven seats.

The Comoda-Materia Pack, with features for superior luxury and privacy, has an integrated 16-inch Astrova monitor with a tilt mechanism, while the lightweight, ergonomic Economy Class Elemento seat is equipped with a 13.3-inch Astrova monitor.

"This achievement underscores the successful fusion of cutting-edge design and advanced technology, made possible by the extraordinary teamwork between Geven and Panasonic Avionics Corporation," Geven said via LinkedIn. "We are beyond proud that Icelandair has chosen Geven as their partner."