

Stelia Aerospace to highlight latest Premium seats at AIX Hamburg

Stelia's OPERA seat offers room for a 20-inch monitor

Stelia Aerospace tells PAX Tech its teams are “delighted to be back at Aircraft Interiors Expo in Hamburg and are eager to see their customers and suppliers again, live at last after two years of show cancellations.”

Within its 360-square-meter stand at 7A30 in Hall B7, the company plans to showcase its latest innovations dedicated to passenger experience, including new “herringbone” range: the OPERA® family and the renewed range of staggered products.

Launched in 2020 but never presented at a show because of the pandemic, the OPERA “Full Flat, Full Access, Full Privacy” Business Class seat offers the highest standard wide-body comfort for single-aisle. It is being presented for the very first time at AIX. The new high-density version will also be unveiled at the show.

The range of “staggered” products with doors, including a brand new and exclusive seat bearing many innovations and new patents, will be presented exclusively upon invitation.

“In the name of Stelia Aerospace, I can say we are very happy and relieved to be back at Aircraft Interiors Expo, after these two years of interruption, and we are truly glad to see the market taking off again. We have used these two years to work on new products and renew our existing range, and are<sub>1</sub> more committed than ever to serving our customer airlines, in their quest for excellence in passenger comfort and operational efficiency,” said Thierry Kanengieser, Vice President Cabin Interior Stelia Aerospace.