
Buzz unveils Sunday Riley amenity kit for United

By Rachel Debling on April, 2 2019 | Amenities & Comfort

Houston-based Sunday Riley is featured in Buzz's latest amenity release

High-performance skincare brand Sunday Riley is being brought on board United's Polaris and Premium cabins, in United Polaris lounges and in United Club showers thanks to a partnership made possible by Buzz.

Mark Krolick, United's Vice President of Marketing, said in a statement from the airline: "Sunday and her team really took the time to understand how travel and the aircraft environment affects our customers and formulated an inflight remedy that complements their journey with United from beginning to end. By elevating the skincare products offered on our planes and in our lounges, we can continue to lift the experience customers have when traveling with United. We are thrilled to be working with a trailblazing businesswoman and entrepreneur who is making a global impact from our Houston hub."

Sunday Riley, founder and CEO of the eponymous brand, also commented: "Being a part of the United experience gives us the opportunity to be with our customers wherever they go. We love being able to elevate the amenity offering and connect with an entirely new audience as they get to pamper themselves in the air. With these new exclusive products, customers around the world can feel and look their best while on their journey."

The United Polaris Business Class kit will feature four Sunday Riley products: a pomegranate seed oil and shea butter lip balm, a botanical face cream, a hand cream containing shea butter, cocoa butter and rose hip seed oil, and a facial cleansing cloth with peppermint extract. United Premium Plus guests will be given the lip balm and hand cream, while United Premium Transcon passengers will receive an amenity kit with the lip balm. The amenity kits will roll out later this month.

Lounge and club products will feature a hand wash containing cucumber and green tea extract, a shampoo with cucumber extract and rose hip oil, a conditioner with green tea extract and pomegranate seed oil, a refreshing body wash with cucumber and green tea extracts, and a shea and cocoa seed butter moisturizer for body and hands.

The exclusive Sunday Riley skincare products that will be flying on United Polaris