

AVIACTION signs partnership with Fundación Integra

Rafael Lora, Director of Human Resources at AVIATION, and Patricia Campayo, Director of Selection at Fundación Integra sign the agreement

AVIATION has signed a collaboration agreement with Fundación Integra to develop a social integration project for individuals facing social exclusion, the February 26 press release said. Rafael Lora, Director of Human Resources at AVIATION, and Patricia Campayo, Director of Selection at Fundación Integra, performed the signing inaugurating this collaboration.

The partnership sees AVIATION align itself with Compromiso Integra, a network of socially responsible companies established by Fundación Integra. The network seeks to improve employment prospects for victims of domestic violence, people with disabilities and other groups at risk of social exclusion.

"This collaboration marks a milestone in our group's journey and our commitment to society. At AVIATION, we endorse inclusive employment and firmly believe that, with Fundación Integra, we are on the right path," said Lora.

Campayo also commented on the partnership: "AVIATION's commitment will transform the lives of individuals with challenging pasts, assisting them in starting over through professional inclusion. This initiative will provide them with stability, autonomy, and self-confidence."

The partnership will give company employees the opportunity to participate in training these individuals via corporate volunteering and conducting workshops to enhance the employability of those with complex backgrounds and disabilities.