Kaelis has announced the appointment of Erdmann Rauer as its newest member of the Supervisory Board. With more than two decades of leadership experience in the aviation and service industries, Rauer brings unparalleled expertise and a fresh perspective to Kaelis as the company continues to expand its global presence and innovate its offerings, the September 26 press release said.

Rauer most recently served as CEO of LSG Group and Board member of Lufthansa Group. During his tenure, he spearheaded the company's transformation into a market leader, recognised for its operational excellence and customer-focused innovations.

“We are thrilled to welcome Erdmann Rauer to the Kaelis Supervisory Board,” said Federico Heitz, Executive Chairman of Kaelis. “His vast experience and deep understanding of the Onboard Services sector will be invaluable as we continue to drive growth and enhance the value we provide to our clients. Erdmann’s knowledge and insight will play a crucial role in guiding our strategic initiatives moving forward.”

As a new member, Rauer will work closely with the Board to further enhance the company’s strategy and support the vision of delivering solutions that elevate the passenger experience, while driving operational efficiencies for airlines globally. His expertise will contribute to expanding the company’s product portfolio and improving sustainability practices.

"I am excited to join Kaelis and contribute to its ambitious journey of innovation and growth," said Rauer. "Kaelis has an outstanding reputation for delivering world-class solutions to airlines and I look forward to working with the team to explore new opportunities and continue raising the bar for excellence in Onboard Services."

Rauer’s appointment comes at a pivotal moment for Kaelis, as the company continues to expand its global reach and strengthen its commitment to sustainability and innovation within the aviation industry.
