

New CEO at Intervine

Intervine Inc. announced recently that Ed Matovcik, who has led the company for the past 11.5 years, has decided to step down as President and CEO.

“Through Ed’s leadership, Intervine has become one of the world’s largest and most well-respected wine management companies for the travel industry,” said a release from the Napa, California company.

Jonjie Lockman will succeed Matovcik as CEO and join the company’s Board of Directors. She has been a senior leader at Intervine since 2011, serving in multiple roles including CFO and most recently COO.

Matovcik will support the transition and continue to serve on Intervine’s Board of Directors.

“We are extremely grateful for Ed’s leadership in propelling Intervine to record growth,” said Intervine Board Chairman Sandra Pineau-Boddison. “He built an industry-leading team and prepared for a succession that will enable Intervine to continue to provide outstanding service to our strategic partners and valued customers.”

“It has been an incredible honor to work with one of the most talented teams in our industry,” said Matovcik. “It has also been a pleasure working with so many dedicated strategic partners across the international wine and travel sectors. I am extremely pleased to hand over the reins to an experienced leader like Jonjie. Her fingerprints are on every success we have had as a company, from our meteoric growth to our resilience in the face of a global pandemic.”

“I am truly honored to lead this talented team and appreciate Ed’s mentorship over the past 11 years,” said Lockman. “We work in two of the most exciting and dynamic industries in the world.... travel and wine. I look forward to continuing to bring new products and award-winning services to our valued customers around the world.”

“Succession planning and positioning the company for continued growth and success is a priority for the board,” continued Pineau-Boddison. “Jonjie brings a wealth of knowledge and experience to the CEO role. She is passionate about our industry and the right person to lead Intervine into this exciting next chapter.”