Manoj Pridhanani, Creative Director, Plane Talking Products

Plane Talking Products is pleased to announce the appointment of Manoj Pridhanani as Creative Director. In this role, he will lead the company's global creative strategy, product direction, and brand development as the business continues to expand its presence in the travel and onboard products market.

Pridhanani brings extensive experience in creative and product leadership across the luxury, lifestyle, and travel sectors, delivering award-winning solutions for international brands. With more than 15 years in aviation-focused design, he has built a reputation for combining innovation with practical, passenger-centric thinking. A strong advocate for sustainability, Pridhanani champions materials and design approaches that support lighter, more efficient, and environmentally responsible inflight solutions. His forward-thinking approach aims to help the industry evolve towards more sustainable and meaningful customer experiences.

In his new role at PTP, he will guide the vision and strategy of the company's product portfolio, strengthen the brand's creative identity, and collaborate closely with airline partners to deliver next-generation passenger experiences.

Alison Wells, CEO of Plane Talking Products, said: “We are delighted to welcome Manoj to the team. His creative insight, deep understanding of customer experience, and commitment to innovation make him an excellent fit as we continue to grow and push boundaries in onboard product design.”

Commenting on his appointment, Pridhanani said: “Plane Talking Products is known for its innovation and quality. I’m excited to join at such an important time and look forward to working with the team and our partners to create designs that elevate the passenger journey.”

This appointment reflects Plane Talking Products’ ongoing commitment to creativity, innovation, and delivering exceptional value to airlines and travelers worldwide.
