

Air France unveils lounge plans at JFK

A 3D rendering of the future Air France lounge at New York-JFK

Next year, Air France will unveil a lounge at New York's John F. Kennedy International Airport (JFK) spanning more than 2,700 square meters, making it the largest lounge in its international network.

A showcase of the French art of travel, the space will welcome La Première and Business Class passengers, Flying Blue Elite Plus members, as well as eligible travelers flying with KLM and SkyTeam partner airlines.

Designed by Air France teams in collaboration with design agency MARKS Brandimage, the lounge will span two levels, and offer seating for more than 400 guests. Travelers will have access to dining areas celebrating French gastronomy, as well as a bar featuring an exclusive selection of French wines and champagnes. Dedicated areas for beauty treatments, relaxation and work will also be available. An exclusive space will be reserved for Flying Blue Ultimate members.

With this lounge, La Première passengers can benefit from a seamless and personalized airport experience, from arrival at the New Terminal One at JFK to boarding the aircraft. Within the lounge, they will have access to an exclusive area featuring a dining offer created specially for them by a renowned French chef. The lounge experience will be complemented by the elevated passenger journey at the New Terminal One, featuring cutting-edge technology, world-class retail and dining and modern amenities.
