
American Airlines removes oversize fees for common sports and music equipment

By Rachel Debling on May, 24 2019 | Airline & Terminal News

American Airlines is eliminating its oversize fees for commonly packed sports and music equipment. The changes began May 21.

The checked oversize bag still counts toward a customer's normal baggage allowance. The change will allow customers traveling with skis or a snowboard will now be able to check in an equipment bag with both in one bag (up to 50 lbs/62 in).

Items such as antlers, hang gliders, scuba tanks and kite/windsurfing items will still be charged a $150 flat rate, due to special handling requirements.

Refer to the full policy on the airline's website for additional information.
