

---

Delta booking four-class cabin for select long-haul

By Rick Lundstrom on January, 4 2019 | Airline & Terminal News

The Premium Select Cabin on Delta Air Lines

Beginning this weekend, passengers booking travel on select trans-Pacific and trans-Atlantic routes on Delta Air Lines will be able to choose from all four branded seat products – Delta One suites, Delta Premium Select, Delta Comfort+ and Main Cabin – for the first time on board retrofitted 777 aircraft.

Flights featuring the newly modified 777 that will be available for sale January 5 include: Minneapolis/St. Paul to Tokyo-Haneda, Paris-Charles De Gaulle, and Seoul; Atlanta to Paris and Tokyo-Narita and Los Angeles to Sydney, for flights on or after March 1.

Last year, Delta announced a full-fleet interior renovation of its 777 aircraft to include the Delta One suite and the popular Delta Premium Select experience – all while maintaining nine-abreast seating in Main Cabin. Delta Comfort+ will be added to the four 777s already modified and the remaining 14 777s have the four seat product this year. Delta Flight Products is managing the 777 fleet modernization.

In addition to the four seat products there will be new seat-back entertainment screens, full-spectrum LED ambient lighting and Gogo Ku Wi-Fi connectivity with free mobile messaging. Delta's retrofitted 777s will also feature 18.5" wide Main Cabin seats - the widest of Delta's international fleet.

Main Cabin on Delta's revamped 777s