

Delta lounge opening at HND

The noodle bar at the Sky Club features made-to-order specialties

Delta Air Lines is opening its first Delta Sky Club at Tokyo's Haneda Airport, the only club operated by a U.S. airline.

Haneda marks Delta Sky Club's third new lounge of the year, with the airline's two largest Clubs at New York LaGuardia and Los Angeles International Airports opening this spring.

"The premier space signifies the completion of Delta's service shift from Tokyo's Narita airport to Haneda, which is more conveniently located and favored by business travelers," said a release from Delta.

Premium sake and spirits will be complimentary for all visitors to the lounge

Located on the fifth floor of Terminal 3, the Club features a premium bar serving seasonal cocktails, wines, beers, spirits and Japanese sake – all complimentary for guests. A specialty, made-to-order noodle bar staffed by a dedicated chef will provide popular regional cuisine. A buffet bar will serve international and Asian-inspired meals prepared with fresh, seasonal ingredients in the Club's kitchen.