

Emirates expands Premium Economy offering

Emirates' is expanding its Premium Economy cabin offering to additional aircraft, operating flights from Dubai to Mauritius

Emirates will introduce its Premium Economy cabin on two of its three daily flights between Mauritius and Dubai from September 1, further expanding the offering across the airline's global network.

Premium Economy will be available on select flights operated by Emirates' A380 and a retrofitted 777. Both widebody aircraft will operate in three-class configurations, offering expanded options and more choice to suit traveler's preferences, the August 27 press release said.

Emirates' flagship A380 aircraft with Premium Economy will feature 76 Business Class seats, 56 seats in Premium Economy and 437 Economy Class seats, while the retrofitted 777 will offer 38 Business Class seats, 24 Premium Economy seats and 214 Economy Class seats on flights to Mauritius.

Oomar Ramtoola, Emirates' Manager for the Indian Ocean Islands, said, "Emirates' Premium Economy offering provides travelers with an attractive proposition, with stylish and elevated cabins for those seeking additional comfort and privacy for longer journeys. Driven by our commitment to Mauritius and the evolving needs of customers across our network, we are immensely proud to expand our offerings by introducing Premium Economy and other inflight enhancements that will elevate the travel experience for customers on the Mauritius-Dubai route – all designed to provide exceptional value for travelers. With the steady roll out of Emirates' Premium Economy, the enhanced offering is now available on an extensive network of routes, so our customers from Mauritius will be glad to know they can enjoy the signature experience to Dubai and onwards to 70 destinations in Europe, Asia and the Americas."

Emirates Premium Economy has been designed for passengers looking for additional space, comfort 1 and an elevated inflight experience. Each 19.5-inch seat offers generous legroom and recline, together with six-way adjustable headrests, a footrest, in-seat charging points, a wood-finished side cocktail table and a 13.3-inch personal entertainment screen.

Passengers traveling in Premium Economy can look forward to a distinctive dining experience, beginning with a welcome drink served in fine glassware as well as meals prepared with seasonal ingredients and served on Royal Doulton china and complemented by an extended beverage selection.

Emirates' passengers traveling in Premium Economy cabins are also provided with sustainable amenity kits, blankets and generously sized pillows designed specifically for the cabin. Additional benefits include priority boarding and access to a dedicated Premium Economy check-in area at Dubai International airport.
