

Iberia renews pre-order meal service

Iberia passengers on long-haul flights departing from Madrid can add exclusive Celebration Packs as part of their menu

Iberia has revamped its menus on long-haul flights and is now updating its pre-order service, available for all short- and medium-haul flights.

This service is available from 45 days up to 18 hours before the flight and offers a variety of fresh dishes for journeys up to four and a half hours long. For long-haul flights departing from Madrid, passengers can add exclusive Celebration Packs as part of their menu, which include a vanilla and lemon cake paired with a bottle of cava. The pre-order service is delivered directly onboard upon presentation of the receipt to the crew, to be enjoyed during the flight.

New culinary highlights include:

- Greek salad
- Oven-roasted chicken breast on a bed of chickpea ragout
- Vegan gnocchi with tomato ragout

- Ricotta mezzelune with sautéed spinach
- Teriyaki salmon with rice and wok vegetables

These new dishes join established favorites such as salmon poke and beef burgers.

Another new feature is the addition of breakfast options on early morning flights with overnight stays outside Madrid, where passengers can enjoy a Mallorcan ensaimada with yogurt. Lunch and dinner services remain unchanged. With this update, Iberia reinforces its commitment to offering a personalized and high-quality onboard experience, the August 20 press release said.
