

JetBlue to open BlueHouse™ lounge at JFK

BlueHouse is designed to feel like a home away from home

JetBlue has announced that BlueHouse, the airline's first-ever airport lounge, will officially open its doors at New York's John F. Kennedy International Airport (JFK) Terminal 5 (T5) on December 18.

As a major element of JetBlue's broader JetForward strategy, which includes delivering more premium, passenger-centric experiences, BlueHouse is designed to set a new benchmark for approachable hospitality in the heart of T5. Inviting, stylish and uniquely JetBlue, the space is designed to feel like an extension of home, inspired by the energy and character of New York City. It introduces a more relaxed, seamless experience to play, work and unwind, with thoughtful design and technology that reduce long lines and make travel feel easier for passengers.

"BlueHouse helps make our flagship terminal feel more like home," said Marty St. George, President, JetBlue. "It is warm, comfortable, and elevated in a way that's distinctly JetBlue, with the hospitality and thoughtful amenities our customers have been asking for. As our first lounge, it represents an exciting milestone in our JetForward journey as we focus on bringing affordable, premium experiences from the aircraft to the airport."

Key Highlights of BlueHouse at JFK Terminal 5:

- 9,000 square feet and two floors bring an NYC apartment-style aesthetic to JFK Terminal 5 with Art Deco design, curated local art and playful nods to JetBlue's history.
- Local flavor infused through fresh bites curated by Union Square Events and beverages from NYC partners Joe Coffee, The Greats of Craft and Please Don't Tell.
- High-speed Wi-Fi, ample power outlets, a game room, open seating and quiet areas give space to the different needs of travelers looking to socialize, work and relax before flying.
- Complimentary access is available to Mosaic 4 members, JetBlue Premier Cardmembers and transatlantic Mint passengers.
