ACS UK to exhibit at Aircraft Interiors Expo 2026 in Hamburg

Emirates Lounge continues to be part of ACS UK’s product portfolio (Photo Courtesy of Emirates)

ACS UK has confirmed its participation at Aircraft Interiors Expo (AIX) 2026, taking place at Hamburg Messe, in Germany from April 14 to 16, 2026. Visitors can find ACS UK at Stand 7A01. Returning to the show, ACS UK will showcase its design, engineering and manufacturing expertise, highlighting innovative solutions that help airlines differentiate their brand, deliver an enhanced passenger experience, and optimize cabin space. Attendees will have the opportunity to explore ACS UK’s extensive portfolio of industry-leading cabin solutions, including:

- Bars and social areas
- Front row monuments
- Branding panels
- Stowages
- Galleys

Many of these solutions are already featured on aircraft operated by some of the world’s leading airlines. Working closely with the forward-thinking airline design teams, ACS UK delivers distinctive, high-quality cabin interiors through its in-house industrial design capability.

By leveraging the latest technological innovations in mood-effect lighting, décor and materials, ACS UK pushes the boundaries of aesthetics and practicality. This approach ensures airlines receive a tailored, truly differentiated product, while passengers enjoy a more comfortable and memorable inflight experience.

Nigel McSorley, CEO of ACS UK, said, “AIX is the most comprehensive aviation interiors event globally and provides an invaluable platform for ACS UK to demonstrate our expertise and unveil some of our latest products, designs, and technologies shaping the future of aircraft cabins. We look forward to welcoming new and existing customers to our stand and engaging with industry peers."

Copyright DutyFree Magazine. All rights reserved.

The event offers an opportunity to explore the future of cabin interiors and discover new solutions that will redefine the passenger experience.

Copyright DutyFree Magazine. All rights reserved.