GIC International Catering hosted an oyster and champagne party this afternoon on the WTCE show floor in Hamburg, bringing together guests from across the industry for an elegant and relaxed networking event.

The stand transformed into a welcoming social space, where attendees gathered over a striking display of freshly shucked oysters, complemented by sushi and champagne. The setting encouraged informal conversation throughout the afternoon, with guests moving easily between meetings and social catch-ups. A prize draw added a lighthearted highlight to the event, with all guests invited to take part for the chance to win a business class ticket.

The event reflected GIC Catering's focus on creating engaging hospitality experiences within the airline catering and onboard services sector, and celebrated the continued growth and success of GIC International Catering.

Commercial Director Bongzi Tshazi-Muller said, "Today we are very excited to be here, celebrating hard work, trust and strong partnerships with our customers. We are not only celebrating 25 years a great milestone but also celebrating and looking forward to continued growth."
