Aircraft Interiors Expo (AIX) 2026 took place at the Hamburg Messe in Hamburg, Germany, this week from April 14 to 16. The event brought together global airline buyers, technology providers, suppliers and manufacturers for three days of innovation and industry collaboration.

More than 1,300 products were showcased over three days, with seating, cabin fittings and electrical systems leading the exhibition categories. Inflight entertainment and digital systems were also a major focus, with 77 exhibitors featured in a dedicated IFE zone.

This year also introduced 75 new exhibitors and a new BizJet Zone, where 24 companies presented innovations in business aviation, reflecting growing demand for premium passenger experiences.

2026 is AIX's 25th edition, marking a special milestone for the aviation industry.

Event Director Archana Dharni tells PAX Tech, “This year's show reflects where aviation interiors stand today, an ecosystem in motion, constantly renewing itself."
